Card Catalog Art Contest

The Birnbaum Library is currently displaying submissions to the Card Catalog Art Contest. During the fall semester students created pieces of art on a two-sided index card. The winner was Jamel Carroll for his work "Iranian Woman" (second row from the top, center). The Pace Library thanks Prof. Nicole Cohen and Prof. Derek Stroup for encouraging students to participate.

Professor's Picks

Prof. Nicole Cohen has put together a display of books at the Birnbaum Library as part of the series Professor's Picks. If other instructors are interested in creating a display, we'd like to hear from them. Please e-mail Brendan at bplanncurley@pace.edu for more information.

Boxing Week at the Library

Once again the Mortola Library will provide boxes, tape and other supplies to help Pace students pack their rental textbooks for shipping. Say goodbye to those textbooks!

Boxing Week runs from Wednesday, December 12 to
Friday, December 21.

Popcorn

This fall students have been popping into the Birnbaum Library for free popcorn. Expect more popcorn giveaways before the end of the semester, as these have proven to be very pop-ular!

Nature Photo Display

The Mortola Library will host an exhibit "Man's Intrusion Into Nature," a collection of photographs taken by students enrolled in "Nature Exposed," an interdisciplinary Art and Environmental Studies course taught by Prof. Carla Shapiro and Prof. Angelo Spillo. The photos will be displayed starting Monday, December 10; a reception will be held from 11:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m.

Game Night

Stop by the Mortola Library this Friday for the final Game Night of the semester. Students are invited to enjoy board games and pizza. Game Night is held four times per semester (the first Friday of the month), so expect more opportunities to attend next year!
